Strikers' Confidence of Success.

As stated several days ago, the River-eride tube works will shut down tonight for an indefinite period, but it is not expected that the stop will be over two weeks. The resumption, however, depends on a settlement of the strike of the day men at the company's plate mill, which up to date remains unchanged. The strikers are very confident of getting the increase of wages they demanded, and believe the increase will be granted as soon as the repairs to the mill are completed for another start.

MAN AND WIFE

Run Over and Killed by an Ohio River Railroad Train

YESTERDAY NEAR MOUNDSVILLE

A TWELVE-YEAR-OLD SON HEARD THE APPROACHING TRAIN AND JUMPED OFF THE TRACK, ESCAPING INJURY—AN INVESTIGATION WAS MADE LAST EVENING, AND RESULTED IN A VERDICT OF ACCIDENTAL DEATH.

The south bound Ohio River railroad passenger train No. 1, which arrives at Moundsville at 7:55 a. m., struck a man and woman just above the coal tipple at Glendale yesterday morning, knocking them from the track. The woman was instantly killed and the man died in about a half hour.

There were three in the party. Amos Brown and his wife, Mary Jane Brown, who had been previously married to a man named Henthorn, and her son, about twelve years of age. The husband and wife were middle-aged persons.

The boy, who escaped unhurt, says that they formerly lived at Mannington, but moved from there to Fish Creek, some years ago. Their property there was burned and they have been tramping since. He says they were walking down the railroad track yesterday morning, and when the train whistled he yelled to the others to get off the track. The man succeeded in getting to the end of the ties and the woman was stepping over the rail when the engine struck them.

The woman's skull was badly fractured and the man was injured internally. The man was taken to the Parish house at Moundsville, where he died in a few minutes.

No inquest was held, but Squire Mann made a thorough investigation of the tragedy and found there was no evidence of criminal carelessness on the part of anyone. The bodies were turned over to an undertaker for burial.

A FLOATER FOUND

In the River Yesterday—It Was a Young Woman's Body.

Last night about 7 o'clock, a floater was picked up in the river at the La Belle landing, at the foot of Twenty-fourth street, by Andy Knapp, a South Side young man. The body was that of a young woman, and she had evidently been in the water for a week. There is no clue to her identity, and the remains which were taken in charge by Undertaker Bertschy, will be interred to-day at the county's expense.

She was fairly well dressed, wore a blue silk skirt, corset, with extra long waist, No. 10, marked "R. & G.", and a pair of No. 3 shoes, upon the soles of which was the name of the manufacturer, "B. Himmelschlag & Son," likely of Pittsburgh. She was five feet four inches in height, and weighed in life about 120 pounds. Her features were not very distinguishable, and the left side of the face near the eye was bruised, doubtless from contact with objects in the water. The woman had red hair, one gold tooth, and a wart on the right side of her chin.

An emerald ring set with diamonds, adorned a finger on her left hand, and from all appearances the woman bore no signs of poverty. It was impossible to judge her age, and guesses ranged from twenty-three to thirty years. An examination of the remains was made by Squire Allen, acting coroner, at Bertschy's, whence the body had been removed, and the squire, after noting down the description of the body, gave orders for the burial. There were no marks of violence on the body.

While the body was being prepared for burial at Bertschy's, it was visited by quite a number of people, none of whom was able to identify the woman, or shed any light on the mystery surrounding her. The Wheeling police have no knowledge of any drowned or suicide at Pittsburgh, or up-the-river towns, so unless the news of finding the body here results in some information being received, the woman will fill an unknown grave.

LOCAL BRIEVITIES

Matters of Minor Moment in and About the City.

This is the monthly city pay day. Firemen, policemen and city officials will receive $4,000.

The board of county commissioners was in special session yesterday afternoon and went over the delinquent tax list returned by Sheriff Richard. Final action will be taken at the regular monthly meeting of the board next Monday morning.

Charles Kennig, who says he beat his way to Wheeling to fill an engagement as a jockey in the circus, was arrested yesterday on a Pan Handle train, by W. B. Johnson, and taken before Squire Rogers, who committed him to jail for ten days.

The funeral of Private John Thomas Sheffield occurred yesterday morning, from the family residence in East Wheeling. The services were held at the Cathedral. Rev. Father Harris officiating. The deceased was a member of the 888th Central Postal Directory, and was killed in action in the Philippines.

The Great Northern railroad has contracted with the Kanawha coal trust, of West Virginia, for 600,000 tons of coal to be used for the road's next annual supply. This is a big blow for the Pittsburgh coal district, which was unable to compete for the order owing to the cheapness of West Virginia production. The contract price is said to be 53 cents a ton.

In the Circuit Court.

Judge Harvey held a special term of the circuit court yesterday.

In the case of Samuel N. Busby vs. David A. Waddle, a decree of sale was entered.

There was an order filing a petition in the case of F. E. Foster et al. vs. D. E. Handley et al.

In the case of Hester Letakus et al. vs. Joseph Webb, the defendant was given further time in which to complete testimony.

THE FLAHERTY CASE.

The item published in Wheeling, Parkersburg and elsewhere, alleging that Sheriff Doyle, of Moundsville, received a letter from State Auditor LaPollette, refusing to issue a requisition for Flaaherty, in doing the auditor's great injustice. The auditor has practically nothing to do with issuing requisitions and did not write Sheriff Doyle. It was claimed by state officials that the sheriff did not provide for the necessary costs to secure the requisition.

ON account of other excursions, the Ohio River railroad will not run a day excursion to Parkersburg and Marietta on Sunday, August 7.

THE WAR TOLD IN PICTURES

A Panoramic Depiction of the Greatest Struggle in the Life of the Nation.

America has passed through the bloody ordeals of seventeen wars, in every one of which she has been victorious. This would seem to indicate that we are a fighting people, and yet no other nation of the earth is so peacefully inclined, for we have steadily resisted the temptation to make conquests. One of the most valuable and timely publications that ever emanated from the press is a portfolio appropriately entitled "Our Nation in War." This superb production is available in packages of sixteen pages each, 11x17 1/2 inches in size, and is devoted to presenting in pictures the most hotly-contested engagements participated in by Americans on land and sea since 1776.

The reproduction of the masterpiece of artists whose creations adorn the government's capital and the galleries of nation and states, and which cost millions in money to buy. In addition to these invaluable depictions, the work illustrates the current events of historic interest as they occur from day to day between the conflicting armies of America and Spain. Artists is kept at the front preparing pictures of all military movements, battles, sieges, bombardments and naval combats, which are reproduced promptly for "Our Nation in War." The Intelligencer is distributing this great portfolio exclusively among its readers, copies of which may be seen at this office, and terms are given in advertisement elsewhere.

A SEVERE STORM

Yesterday Afternoon at 3 O'clock that Approaching a Cloud-burst in Violence, and Made Several Streets Torrents of Mud and Water.

Yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Wheeling was visited by one of the most violent rain storms ever experienced here during summer months. The rain was accompanied by a terrific wind, but happily no damage was caused by wind or rain. The water came down off the hillside and made Market, Eleventh, Twelfth and Fourteenth streets torrents of mud and water. For nearly half an hour the streets named were impassable for animals or street cars, and at several places the water and mud entered stores. The cellar of the big Potts building on Market street was half filled with water before the workmen could erect a temporary dam.

BOY ESCAPES DROWNING.

A five-year-old boy drowning on Twelfth street, seems like a remarkable attempt at deviating from the ways of truth and righteousness, yet the statement is true. It must be remembered that yesterday's rain was a corker, and Twelfth street between Market and Main, soon evolved into a respectable river, with a good boating stage. It was about 2 o'clock when the probable victim started to wade into the rushing stream. His little Tribbles got only a few feet from shore, when the force of the water carried them up and his body down, and his screams then permeated the juicy atmosphere. The little fellow received a good ducking before he could be taken out, and he swallowed more water than he could stand. A generous clothier brought the boy into his store and gave him a new pair of pants.

ABOUT PEOPLE

Strangers in the City and Wheeling People Abroad.

Charles F. Bachman returned last night from Taylor county, where one day previous he attended the sale of the Ironstone furnace property. This property, which consisted of an iron furnace, narrow-gauge railroad, several dwellings and 1,200 acres of land, was sold by a United States marshal under decree of the United States court. The furnace and equipment were sold to Thomas P. Conrad, of Philadelphia, for $1,000, and Bachman bought the land and dwellings for $4,800. The entire property is said to have picked up a good thing.

A MILLION BLACK BASS

To be Placed in Wheeling Creek by Judge Huges for the Fish Commission.

Local anglers will rejoice to learn that Wheeling creek is to be stocked with black bass fish. Over a million members of this branch of the flann family will arrive at Elm Grove to-day, and be taken charge of by Judge T. J. Huges, whom Fish Commissioner Bowers has selected to stock the headwaters of the creek with the fish. No better selection could have been made, and Judge Huges will receive the thanks of the sportsmen of this community, for it is largely due to his efforts that the creek's headwaters and placed in the stream. Black bass will be greatly welcomed by the Isaac Walton, and it is probable that this is the first time Wheeling creek has been so favored.

TO THE SUBURBS

Postal Delivery Service is to be Extended on Monday.

FULTON, LEATHERWOOD, ALTENHEIM

AND THE OTHER VILLAGES OUT THE PIKE TO PLEASANT VALLEY WILL SECURE THE EXTENDED SERVICE, AS WILL BOGGS' RUN AND UPPER BENWOOD—THREE ADDITIONAL CARRIERS APPOINTED—MAIL WAGON TO BE INTRODUCED.

For several months, Postmaster Wise has been making a strong effort to secure an extension of the free postal delivery to suburban points in the vicinity of Wheeling. Yesterday afternoon the postmaster announced that the effort has been successful and the extension of the free delivery from the Wheeling postoffice will be inaugurated next Monday morning.

There are to be two routes of the suburban delivery. One is to the several villages on the National road east of the city, including Fulton, Leatherwood, Altenheim, Echo Point and to Pleasant Valley.

The other route is in upper Benwood and out Boggs' Run, in Marshall county.

For the route out the National road, the carrier will use a vehicle called the "Delivery" mail wagon, which has been in use in some of the larger cities for suburban routes during the past two years.

The driver enters the wagon from the rear, something on the order of the old-time chariot. It is provided with a large box, in which the mail is carried.

To inaugurate this suburban service, three additional regular carriers are necessary, and they have been appointed as follows: Charles H. Murrin, George Buersackstimmer and O. J. Targ. In a few days these substitute carriers will be named to fill the vacancies caused by the advancement of the three carriers named above.

In addition to giving a suburban service, as outlined above, there will be a re-arrangement of routes in the city proper, and parts of the city that have had only three deliveries, will have five. On the two suburban routes, there will be two collections and deliveries daily, morning and afternoon. Letter boxes will be put up along the new routes early next week.

There are now twenty regular carriers and three substitutes in the Wheeling postoffice.

HEALY VICTIMIZED.

The Former Fire Chief Cashes a $25 Check That Was a Forgery.

Frank J. Healy, proprietor of the Senate saloon, was victimized out of $25 a few days ago, by a man who gave his name as Charles E. Rhinehart, and who represented himself to be an agent for a brewery. Rhinehart produced a check on the Pittsburgh German bank, and by telling Mr. Healy that he was out of funds, succeeded in getting him to advance him the face value of the check. Then Mr. Rhinehart withdrew, and Mr. Healy had the check, but later discovered that it was forged.

Constable Osborn Gray learned that Rhinehart had been arrested in Steubenville for another offense, and on a warrant sworn out before Squire Dunning, Constable Gray and Mr. Healy leave for Steubenville this morning.

Mr. Healy intends to prosecute Rhinehart to a finish, and the forger will be brought back this evening, unless requisition papers are demanded.
